Advertiſements.

To the PUBLICK.

Bruton-ſtreet. July 18, 1760.

THE Right Hon. the Lord Barrington, Secretary at War, having been pleaſed to communicate to me the following extract of a letter, I think it my duty to make it publick, for the ſake of the inhabitants of very hot climates; of the Navy ſurgeons, and thoſe committed to their care; and of thoſe commanders and ſurgeons on board trading veſſels, that are already furniſhed with my powder.—For the future proper inſtructions will be given in the printed directions.

If every one, to whom the care of my powder has been committed by their ſuperiors, had been as diligent in obſerving, as judicious in applying, and as attentive to His Majeſty's ſervice as Mr. Browne, no doubt but ſome thouſands of brave fellows might have ſurvived to ſerve their King and country, that are now no more; a conſideration of no ſmall moment in this tedious and deſtructive war, perhaps rendered more ſo by the neglect of thoſe, whom their ſuperiors had furniſhed with every advantage to enable them to do their duty with effect.

R. JAMES.

To Doctor JAMES.

SIR, War-Office, July 17, 1760.

I Send you incloſed the copy of an extract of a letter from Mr. Henry Browne, Surgeon to Colonel Coote's battalion; which I think it right to communicate to you, as it ſhews the great efficacy of your medicines, and as it may aſſiſt you in giving directions for accommodating the doſes to very hot climates.—You are at liberty to make what uſe you pleaſe of this extract, which may be depended on as authentic. I am, Sir,

Your moſt obedient, and moſt humble ſervant,
BARRINGTON.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Henry Browne, ſurgeon of Colonel Coote's battalion, dated at Madraſs the 4th of Nov. 1759.

With the ſix companies that went out with us, we loſt eighteen in the voyage, fifteen of them died of fevers. We had above forty fevers in the ſhip I was in. I uſed James's Powders with great ſucceſs; we had but one died. When we were within twelve Degrees of the Line, or leſs, it was impracticable to uſe them as James, the evacuations were ſo great, that the patient could not bear them: I gave four or five grains, every three hours, which proved a powerful ſudorific; the firſt doſe generally vomited, or purged two or three times: By this treatment the fever left them in two or three days."

DR. JAMES's Powder for FEVERS, and other Inflammatory Diſtempers, publiſhed by Virtue of His MAJESTY's ROYAL LETTERS PATENT, will remove (as has been experienced in many thouſand Caſes) any continual acute Fever in a few Hours, though attended with Convulſions, Light-headedneſs, and the worſt Symptoms: But if taken in the Beginning of a Fever, one Doſe is generally ſufficient to perform a Cure. *

It is likewiſe a moſt effectual Remedy for all internal Inflammation, Pleuriſies, Quincies, acute Rheumatiſms, and the Lowneſs of Spirits, and Uneaſineſſes proceeding from ſlow and latent Fevers, which are generally miſtaken for Vapours and Hyſteries; it is extremely effectual in the Small Pox, Meaſles, and St. Anthony's Fire; and a ſingle Doſe remarkably ſtops the Progreſs of a Cold, and certainly prevents the ill Conſequences ariſing from that very common Diſorder, the Source of almoſt all Diſtempers.

This Powder (which is a very ſafe and pleaſant Medicine to take) is ſold by J. Newbery at the Bible and Sun in St. Paul's Church-yard, London; and by J. Hoey, jun. in Skinner Row, Dublin; at 2 s. 6 d. the two Doſes, with good Allowance to thoſe who buy it for charitable Uſes, or to ſell again.

* See a Diſſertation on Fevers, and other Inflammatory Diſtempers, ſold at the Places above-mentioned. Price 6 d.

SATURDAY, Auguſt 9, 1760.

Whitehall, Auguſt 9.

Yeſterday in the Afternoon, Capt. Faucitt, Aide de Camp to the Marqueſs of Granby, arrived with the following Account from His Serene Highneſs Prince Ferdinand of Brunſwick's Head Quarters at Warburg, dated the 1ſt Inſtant.

THE Chevalier de Muy having paſſed the Dymel at Stadtbergen with the Reſerve of the French Army under his Command, (amounting, as is ſuppoſed, to upwards of Thirty-five Thouſand Men) extending itſelf down the River in order to cut off our Communication with Weſtphalia, while Marſhal Broglio advanced with the Main Army of the French towards our Camp at Kalle, as Prince Xavier of Saxony did likewiſe with the Reſerve under him towards Caſſel, which Place General Kilmanſegge was left with a Body of Troops to protect; his Serene Highneſs paſſed the Dymel in the Night of the 30th, between Liebenau and Dringelbourg. The Hereditary Prince paſſed that River on the 29th to reinforce General Sporcke, and took Poſt between Liebenau and Corbeke, the whole Corps then conſiſting of 24 Battalions and 22 Squadrons: And on the 30th his Highneſs reconnoitred the Poſition of the Chevalier de Muy's Camp between Warbourg and Ochſendorff. About Five the next Morning the grand Army aſſembled, and formed on the Heights near Corbeke, while the Hereditary Prince was marching in two Columns, in order to turn the Enemy's Left Flank, which was attacked almoſt at the ſame Time, both in Flank and in Rear, by the Hereditary Prince and M. de Sporcke; and, after a very ſharp Engagement, the Enemy was at laſt obliged, by our continual Fire, to give Way, and fall back upon Warbourg. The Army was marching in the mean While, with the greateſt Expedition, to attack the Enemy in Front; but as the Infantry could not come up to charge in Time, the Marqueſs of Granby was ordered to advance with the Cavalry of the Right; and the Engliſh Artillery, commanded by Captain Phillips, made ſuch Expedition, as to be able to ſecond the Attack in a ſuprizing Manner. The French Cavalry, though very numerous, retreated immediately, as ours were advancing upon them, excepting only three of their Squadrons, which ſhewed ſome Firmneſs, but were ſoon broke. Part of the Engliſh Cavalry then fell upon the Enemy's Infantry, which ſuffered extremely, particularly the Swiſs Regiment of Lochmann. The Town of Warbourg was attacked by the Legion Britannique; and the Enemy finding themſelves thus attacked on both their Flanks, in Front and in Rear, retired in the utmoſt Precipitation, and with the Loſs of many Men, both from the Fire of our Artillery, and from the Charge of our Cavalry. Many of them were drowned, in attempting to ford the Dymel. The Enemy's Loſs in Men is certainly conſiderable, but cannot be exactly calculated. It is ſuppoſed, that they have left Fifteen Hundred upon the Field of Battle, and that the Priſoners we have made exceed that Number. We have taken ten Pieces of Cannon, with ſome Colours. Our Loſs is very moderate, and falls chiefly upon Maxwell's Battalion of Engliſh Grenadiers, which did Wonders. My Lord Granby, and Lieutenant-General Moſtyn, at the Head of the Engliſh Cavalry, diſtinguiſhed themſelves greatly, and contributed much to the Succeſs of the Day.
